Reveal Chase Bank Holds 18 Millions Ounces Silver

New York Last Night

INDIVIDUAL HOLDERS

Morgenthau May Call Senate Investigation in Order to Get to Facts

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)— Interests associated with the drive for silver legislation were revealed in two instances to own blocks of the metal in a partial list of silver holders sent to the senate today by Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr.

The list that the Continental Can company, whose board chairman,
Carl Conway, was one of the hosts
last night at a dinner to silver bloc legislators, held 200,000 ounces.

Robert M. Harris, of the New York brokerage house of Harris and Vose and a member of the committee of the nation also was a host. His firm was shown to hold long commitments as of May 1, 1933.

The dinner was given at a downtown hotel and members of both house and senate were present.
Father Charles E. Coughlin was one of the speakers.

In addition to its long position
Harris and Vose were recorded in several instances to be the depository for silver held by others.

Chase Leads All

By far the largest silver holders
was revealed to be the Chase National bank with 18,000,000 ounces.
There was nothing to indicate whether the silver was held for others.

Banks, both foreign and domestic, were large holders in the partial list which only included names beginning with "A" through
"H" of the alphabet.

Large numbers of persons living abroad were also established to have made heavy purchases
which were being held for their account in this country.

Morgenthau suggested it might be necessary for the senate to begin an investigation of its own to gain the necessary facts.

The list submitted today carried only part of the names in the alphabetical order from "A" through
"H."

Other large holders were:

Bank of Manhattan, New York, 11,063,759 ounces.

Brosco Corp., Jersey City, N. J., 1,127,400.51.

WILEY SURRENDERS IN BONDS SCANDAL

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—(UP)—
E. E. Wiley, suspected as a principal in the disposal in Los Angeles of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of bonds stolen
throughout the middle west, suddenly surrendered today to the United States marshal.

In addition to suspicion of complicity in the "hot bond" disposals, Wiley was wanted for questioning regarding threats of death made a prisoner who had promised to turn state's witness.

Wiley's surrender came as the federal court announced that trial
of Wiley and three co-defendants, scheduled for today, probably would be continued until tomorrow.

Wouldn't Take Pennies From Baby's Bank

TROY, N. Y., April 24.—
(UP)—When Everett Lawless was fined $2 in police court on a charge of failing to have lights on a parked automobile, he produced the amount in pennies.

Justice Byron inquired:
"What's the idea?"

"I've been out of work for some time," Lawless explained, "and had to get the change out of the kid's bank."

Justice Byron's expression changed.

"Take it back," he said.
"I wouldn't rob a kid's bank
even for the law. Put it back in your child's bank."

DOG HOLDS KEY TO EXPERIMENT OF SCIENTISTS

Berkeley, Calif., April 24.—
(UP)—A fox terrier dog, killed by nitrogen 11 days ago and revived by Dr. Robert Cornish, University of California research scientist, kicked off his blankets at noon today
to send a thrill of excitement through the tiny laboratory where experiments are being conducted in revival after death.

BERKELEY, Calif., April 24.—
(UP)—A small black and white dog, partially revived
from apparent death by a young experimenter, today held the key to discoveries which may solve science's ageless search for a means of restoring life.

Success of the experiment of
Dr. Robert Cornish, 28-year-old University of California graduate, depended upon the return to full consciousness of Lazarus IV, the fox terrier he restored to partial consciousness after asphyxiation
with nitrogen 11 days ago.

Locked in a barnlike laboratory
on the college campus, Cornish watched patiently and hopefully as the dog fought his way back to a normal state. The pale-faced young scientist rejoiced as breathing resumed, the heart again began beating, and vision returned.
The dog responded to ordinary reflexes, sought feebly to brush a fly off its body, and accepted food.

Believing he was on the threshold of a tremendous discovery in his challenge to death, Dr. Cornish strive to restore the dog to complete normalcy. Then and only then will he be ready to try on human beings his method of resuscitation for persons killed by drowning, electrocution, shock or by other violent means.

Lessons learned from similar experiments on two dogs which lived only a few hours after being revived guided Cornish and his aides in the latest attempt to solve the mystery of death. Lazarus IV was put to death on Friday, April 13, by asphyxiation.
When the heart had been still for four minutes, artificial respiration by the teeter-board method was applied. An injection developed by Dr. Cornish was shot into the femoral artery. The solution included fibrinated blood.

WARSHIPS SPEEDED THROUGH PANAMA

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CALI-FORNIA, IN THE PANAMA CAN-AL ZONE, April 24.—(By Radio to the United Press)—Under conditions which imposed wartime censorship regulations on both naval and commercial vessels, the warships of the United States fleet moved through the Panama canal today under emergency transit orders.

Admiral David Sellers, commander-in-chief, sought to learn how quickly the fleet can be moved from one end of the isthmian waterway to the other in event rapid movement is necessary. Rigid secrecy surrounded the dispatch of the vessels from the Pacific side, where they arrived late Saturday, to the Atlantic side, where they had not been expected for two weeks.

GLORIA SWANSON TO ASK FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, April 24.—(UP)— Gloria Swanson admitted today that she had consulted her attorney concerning a divorce action against her fourth husband, Michael Farmer.

Thus she verified reports current along Broadway and Park avenue for weeks.

Miss Swanson refused to comment on reports her marriage had been wrecked by her friendship with Herbert Marshall, English actor.

Marshall is in New York and he and Miss Swanson occasionally are seen together.

STRIKER WOUNDED IN RIOT

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—(UP)—
One striker was in a critical condition in the city hospital today,
the first victim of violence in the strike of workers at the Chevrolet
Motor company and the Fisher
Body company here.

He was Lee Sanford, who was stabbed in the left lung when he and two companions attempted to stop several men from entering the Chevrolet plant.

Fisher Body Plant Halts Operations

Spread of Strike Virtually Closes Cleveland Factory Today

CLEVELAND, April 24.—(UP)— Strike of Fisher Body corporation workers had spread to include more than 8,400 men and women today, bringing a virtual halt to operations in the plant of Cleveland's largest employer of industrial labor.

While harassed negotiators strove
for a settlement before the automobile labor board in Detroit, heavy picketing—good-natured but unyielding—continued at the big plant here.

The walkout became virtually complete when most of the night shift failed to show up and only a few attempted to enter the plant.
Only the crew of 12 engineers, firemen and silvers were given permits to enter to take care of pressure in the boilers, which, if lost, takes 48 hours to regain.

Paul Miller, president of the United Automobile Workers Federal union, claimed today that during picketing activities yesterday 1,000
new members of the union were signed. This, according to Miller, gives the union 5,500 of the 8,400
men employed in the plant.

Minor disorders occurred in the picket lines yesterday, with a policeman and an elderly worker knocked down by pickets. One woman was partially disrobed in the fracas and was taken home in a police car. Strikers received stern warning from union leaders to refrain from violence.

Lincoln R. Seale, general manager of the plant, has flown to Detroit to confer with heads of the corporation and to appear before the auto labor board. Henry J.
Hart, Frank J. Dillon and William Collins, A. F. of L. organizers, represented the strikers before the committee.

ANTI CRIME BILLS ARE REPORTED OUT

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—
The House judiciary committee voted today to report favorably
two bills of the government's 12-point anti-crime program, aimed at such outlaws as John Dillinger.

Chairman Hatt W. Sumners said the committee would meet tomorrow to discuss the rest of the bills.

The two bills acted on would make it a federal offense to transport stolen property across state lines and make it a federal offense to flee from one state to another to avoid prosecution or giving testimony.

The 12 bills are part of the program sponsored by the department of justice for wider powers to capture criminals.

CLARENCE DARROW MAY DEFEND INSULL

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—
A possibility that Clarence Darrow, one of the nation's foremost criminal lawyers, might be "drafted" to defend Samuel Insull when the latter finally reaches this country from his Grecian hideaway,
was disclosed today.

Darrow, fellow Chicagoan of the once-mighty mid-western utilities magnate, asserted that as yet he had not been approached to lend his services to Insull. More mention, however, that there were reports he would be asked to become chief counsel brought a gleam to his eyes.

"I have not been asked," Darrow remarked upon leaving the White House where he had called to discuss with President Roosevelt
the work of the national review board of which he is a member.
Incidentally, that board is for the protection of the "little fellow"
against monopolistic tendencies,
through operation of NRA codes.

CLARENCE DARROW MAY DEFEND INSULL

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—
The defense rested today in the trial of Bishop James Cannon jr.
and his ex-secretary after more than two weeks of testimony designed to prove they were not guilty of conspiring to violate the corrupt practices act.

Cannon was the final witness.
He attempted to explain how the ledger of his 1928 Anti-Smith campaign was preserved, while the cash book was lost. The Methodist Episcopal churchman said both books were sent to his headquarters at the Methodist board of temperance and morals, but that "only the ledger seems to have been preserved."

SANTA ANA AWARDED SECOND PLACE IN NATIONAL HEALTH CONTEST BY U. S. CHAMBER

Santa Ana captured second place in the United States for cities between 20,000 and 50,000 population in the 1933 Health Conservation contest, which is conducted jointly by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the American Public Health association. It was learned today in word received by George A. Ray-mer, secretary of the local chamber.

This city was defeated only by Hackensack, New Jersey, in cities of its class, it was revealed in the annual nation-wide contest. Other members of the committee are
F. A. Henderson, O. H. Barr, Dr.
Harry G. Huffman, J. L. McBride
and Dr. Cassius Paul.

Cities throughout the United States participate annually in the contest, the object of which is not to determine which are the healthiest cities in the country, but to honor those which carry on the most effective and best balanced community public health program.

Among the outstanding improvements which the Health Conservation contest has helped to effect, it was stated, are (1) a sustained intelligent interest in public health, particularly on the part of influential laymen; (2)
an increased interest in, and participation in, preventive medical measures on the part of practicing physicians and dentists; (3)
an increase in the percentage of young children protected against croup, diphtheria, (4) an improvement in both the quality and safety of milk supplies, particularly through increased tuberculin testing of cows and pasteurization of milk;
(5) a more general acceptance and practice of the principle of having a periodic health examination by both children and adults.

"The declarations meant above
all to affirm Japan's firm intention to assume the responsibility for events in Western Asia in powers," it was explained that he

the territories mentioned, the consul general said he was unable to explain how Japan would apply
her hands off policy. He said Japan hoped powers intending to aid China would first consult Japan.

them whether we think their aid
is good or bad."

natural defender of peace in "western" Asia and intended to oppose any aid to China which might be harmful to Japanese

mit assistance to China which

SOLONS SPEED ACTION ON ALL PENDING BILLS

Hope for Early Adjournment Blooms Again and Legislation Rushed

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—
Congress has put on such a burst of speed since President Roosevelt's return from Florida that hopes for an early adjournment, like the spring flowers which border the capitol lawns are blooming again.

The situation today showed the tax bill well on the road toward enactment, the controversial air-mail and stock market bills with apparently clear sailing ahead,
practically all major appropriation measures out of the way.

There remained the president's tariff and relief programs. The former, already approved by the house, will be brought before the senate early enough so that even most protracted debate should be concluded late in May or early in June.

The combination of Mr. Roosevelt's return, spring weather and its traditional reaction upon human hearts, and the need for political fence-mending back home have brought the speeding-up process.
Developments showing this new spirit include:

The determination to wind up conferences on the tax bill after Wednesday, and the conference of leaders that this measure and its difficult problems can be worked out satisfactorily.

Tokio Declarations Held as Amicable Warning to Interested Powers

GENEVA, April 24.—(UP)—A Japanese declaration dwarf-ing in its implications the "hands off China" statements at Tokio last week was studied today by helmsmen of League of Nations officials who have not yet recovered from loss of prestige in the Manchurian incident.

The American Philippines, British India, the Dutch East Indies, Asiatic Russia and independent Siam were included, along with China and Manchukuo, as Japan's "collaborators" in the preserving
of peace in the Far East.

In a prepared statement an-

NORMA TALMADGE IS MARRIED TO JESSEL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 24.—(UP)—George and Norma Talmadge Jessel were expected to leave today for a brief honeymoon in Florida before returning to New York.

The former star of the silent
films and the comedian were wed
in a four-minute ceremony in a suite at the Hotel Ambassador yesterday. Mayor Harry Bacharach performed the ceremony and nine friends were present.

Norma telephoned the news to her sisters, Natalie and Constance Talmadge, in California. Reporters then were admitted. They had been waiting outside, although the marriage was a "deep secret."

Miss Talmadge, recently recipient of a Mexican divorce from Joseph
M. Schenck, movie magnate, and Jessel had driven from New York
before dawn to escape publicity.
Both gave their ages as 38.

AMERICAN BOY IS CHINA FIRE HERO

SHANGHAI, April 24.—(UP)—
An American in the deepest heart of China saved a city and a 300-
year-old lamasey near the Tibetan border from destruction by fire, according to dispatches from distant Tachienlu today.

William Mandeville, 23, Los Angeles, was the hero of the story
the dispatches told.

Organizing the frightened villagers into bucket brigades, Mandeville directed their fight against the flames which threatened the flimsy buildings of the town.

From the roof of the Dorje Geshe temple, he guided the lines of wa-terpassers in extinguishing the fire
in the aged Ngachos Lamasey.

Through Mandeville's efforts the lamasey was saved and smaller fires throughout the town were quenched.

PROHIBITION FOR MEXICO PROMISED

MEXICO CITY, April 24.—(UP)— Mexico faced the virtual certainty today of undergoing an experiment in prohibition immediately after the presidential election in July.

Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, candidate of the governmental national revolutionary party for president and regarded as certain of being elected, announced today he was determined to end manufacture and sale of spirits.

"If I am elected," he said, "I will fight for prohibition of intoxicating drinks. I was a laborer and I still am a laborer. I ask all laborers to follow my example and become propagandists against alcohol and fanaticism."

tions committee decided today to

Finds $6700 Hidden In Closet Drawer

NEW YORK, April 24.— (UP)—A treasure hunt was under way today in a six-story apartment building as the result of the discovery of $6700 in $5 and $10 bills
secreted in one of the apartments.

The money was found by Mrs. Victor Pujos, wife of a jeweler, who was trying to discover what made the drawer of a built-in closet
stick. She pulled out 1203 $5 bills and 67 $10 bills.

Police investigators learned that the previous tenant
had been a "Father Prout," an unrobed priest who had been engaged in experiments in Oriental magic. Then the janitor's wife mentioned that "Father Prout" had occupied five different apartments in the building and the treasure hunt got under way promptly.

TUGWELL MADE WALLACE AIDE BY PRESIDENT

Head of Brain Trust Appointed as Under Secretary of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—
President Roosevelt today
sent to the senate the nomination of Rexford Guy Tugwell
to be under-secretary of agriculture, a new position created by congress.

Tugwell has been assistant secretary of agriculture and his promotion, it was explained at the White House, was made on recommendation of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. Tugwell generally is conceded to be the head of the so-called "brain trust," composed of college professors and others who have assisted Mr.
Roosevelt in drafting administration policies.

The president also nominated
Thomas Jefferson Coolidge of Massachusetts to be undersecretary of the treasury.

GLASSFORD PLANS TO RESUME PROBE

SAN DIEGO, April 24.—Brig-
Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, government representative in the Imperial valley agricultural labor troubles, in commenting on the recent difficulties in a talk before the Hammer club, composed of American Legion business and professional men here yesterday, said
"Property rights seem to come above personal liberty."

"There are two sides to the strike situation and I'm going to get to the bottom of both," he declared.
"I haven't reached the heart of either side yet, but I do know
—wages are higher among agricultural workers because of the agitation of organizers."

Charles Nice, Imperial valley rancher, who also spoke at the meeting, scored San Diegans for "tolerating in your downtown district the seat of Communist activities in Imperial and San Diego counties."

DESPERADO IS STALKED BY POSSES

Indians Join With Federal Agents in Trailing Ace
Gangster in Wisconsin

WOMEN BOLT DOORS

All Roads Leading to Canadian Border Guarded
By Armed Lumberjacks

HURLEY, Wis., April 24.—(UP)— Through snow covered pine forests and in a half dozen cities of the northwest grim federal agents and hundreds of local officers today stalked John Dil-linger and his gunmen.

A tacit order to shoot to kill—
and on sight—went with the searchers.

At least five members of the gang which yesterday battled law forces to a standstill in four bloody encounters were believed still lurking in a northern region
thickly dotted with lakes and covered with dark forests. Dillinger, himself, perhaps was among them.

A Park Falls, Wis., policeman,
Elmer Peterson, warned St. Paul,
Chicago and all Wisconsin authorities last night to watch for five men in a mud splattered, brown
sedan. The five stopped in Park Falls about midnight to buy gasoline and oil.

Peterson said he was certain
there were guns in the car and that the men answered descriptions
of the fleeing gangsters.

The gigantic search, in which even Indians of the Lac Du Flambeau and La Pointe reservations took part, pointed today toward this wide open, roistering border town, only a comparatively few miles from the spot where yesterday two men died and four were wounded in battles between Dil-linger's gang and officers.

After yesterday's hot pursuit of three of the gangsters from Manitowish, Wis., to St. Paul, with the gunmen battling a deputy sheriff
and stealing a motor car en route, the report today indicating that they had doubled back through the north country sent hundreds of officers pouring again
over the woodland roads.

In isolated farm houses housewives bolted their doors, although Dillinger always has shown an eccentric consideration for non-combatants in his war with the law.
Lonely country stores were closed and the whole countryside watched their roads apprehensively.

A score of brawny lumberjacks,
armed only with double-bitted
axes, and contemptuously unafraid
of the city gangsters' machine guns, left Hurley today to join in patrolling roads leading to the Canadian border.

While the huge army of officers
thrown into the search concentrated on the wilderness area, they gave active attention also to other reports.

A Milwaukee street car conductor told police today that he saw a car containing four rifle-armed men leaving the Milwaukee city limits. Police and deputy sheriffs took up a pursuit through the country.

from another dog, heparin to prevent coagulation, a salt mixture, and epinephrine, a heart stimulant.

Within 30 seconds the heart beat resumed. Breathing commenced. The dog was comatose and weak, but alive.

"His condition was similar to that of a person rendered unconscious by shock or a blow on the head," Dr. Cornish told the United Press. "His heart was beating rapidly and the blood pressure was normal, conditions which marked the first time since the second death of the other dogs on which we experimented."

"We injected into the veins of Lazarus' IV blood containing a physiological salt solution and about seven per cent of gum arabic. During that gum arabic surgeon learned that gum arabic had a slowing effect on the heart, at intervals during the first day we slowed the heart action with gum arabic. The dog remained alive and gained strength."

"I cannot say the experiment is a success until the dog regains consciousness and becomes completely normal. We have hopes that he will revive entirely but he may remain in his present condition for days or weeks, then either die or gradually regain consciousness."

CHICKENS STOLEN

Twenty-two chickens were stolen last night from the ranch of Lew Betts, on Prospect avenue in Tustin, according to sheriff's officers. Chief John Stanton of Tustin and Deputy Sheriff Ives Brown and Sam Shodgrass are investigating the theft.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, April 24.—(To the Editor of The Register:—) Well, they had Dillinger surrounded and was all ready to shoot him when he came out, but another bunch of folks come out ahead, so they just shot them instead. Dillinger is going to accidentally get with some innocent by-standers some time, then he will get shot.

Here is the usual A.P. dispatch from Indiana: "Michigan City, Ind., April 23.—Four prisoners, three serving life terms, escaped from the prison today."

An Indiana sentence from a judge reads: "You are sentenced to prison as long as it is made comfortable for you and you desire to remain. In checking out kindly let warden know, so he will know how many will be there for supper."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

LEAGUE SCANS LATEST NOTE OF JAPANESE

Interested in China not to give China means of troubling Far Eastern peace," he said.

Japan would not object, he said, in principle, to the league's technical cooperation with China as long as the corporation was not employed politically against Japan.

There was some speculation here whether, in including India and Asiatic Russia in his statement, Yokoyama was hinting at intrigues for political, religious and perhaps ultimately military power in vast Sinkiang province in southwest China.

This territory borders on India and Russia, and they, as well as China and Japan, are seeking influence in the territory, immensely rich in natural resources and important to all Asia because of its military position.

UNITED STATES MAY SEND NOTE TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—The United States may follow the lead of Great Britain in officially reminding the Japanese government of its obligations under the nine power pact, it was stated in authoritative quarters today.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull was due back in Washington today from New York, and his arrival was expected to coincide with the dispatch of either a memorandum to the Japanese government or of instructions to American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in Tokyo to make such a reminder.

Shortly after news that the British government had transmitted a note to Japan, Undersecretary of State William Phillips conferred with President Roosevelt. Upon his return to the state department he called in officials of the Far Eastern division of the department. All indications pointed to the preparation of a note to Japan or instructions to Grew.

Considerable annoyance is felt in official circles here over the manner in which the Japanese have given world-wide publicity to Japan's unofficial pronouncement of an "unequal Monroe doctrine" for the Far East.

The situation has reached a point where official notice of it may be taken by this government. The impetus for such action was furnished by the British note reminding Japan of her treaty obligations.

Historically, the United States has been an aggressive defender of the "open door" policy in China. There was no indication this policy would be surrendered without stiff opposition.

'Chuck' Nimmo To Specialize On 880

WATERS WELL KNOWN MEN RED GROUP

BY KENNETH ADAMS

Jumping from point to point until many of his listeners apparently were as confused as he was, and quoting at random from a mass of data, choosing such points as fitted in with his ideas, Dr. Waters of the University of California at Berkeley launched his usual tirade against the "red menace" in the county at an open public meeting last night in the Orange Woman's clubhouse sponsored by the Orange Business and Professional Women's club and attended by a small group of about 75 persons. All service clubs of the city had been invited.

Dr. Waters named such prominent persons as Dr. George A. Warner, J. F. Burke, W. M. Burke, D. K. Hammond, McKee Fluke, L. L. Beaman, E. M. Nealey, all of Santa Ana; the Rev. Russell Stroup of Newport Beach; the Rev. Dr. Gaylord of Brea; the Rev. Perry F. Schrock of Santa Ana, and the Rev. Graham C. Hunter of Fullerton, as a group of "reds" in the county.

The speaker said he differentiated between "reds" and Communists, in that Communists advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence and replacing the government with a Communist regime with headquarters at Moscow, while "reds" are those that a general term is applied to who knowingly or otherwise, aid Communism in obtaining its objectives.

Dr. Waters said he obtains his information from a man who, "at the risk of his life and after two years of work has succeeded in getting in the inner circle of Communist groups in Orange county." He claimed he could prove his statements, but would have to do so by affidavit so that the life of his informant would not be jeopardized.

All during his talk Dr. Waters berated the Santa Ana junior college and the junior college Y. M. C. A. which he termed a "black sheep" Y. M. C. A. which had been especially investigated because of alleged "red" tendencies.

At the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Waters was questioned by two Santa Ana junior college students, who charged him with being Fascist because of his beliefs that force is needed in order to maintain power, and in intimidating people. One student objected to the speaker's terming anyone "red" who did not agree with the speaker's reactionary views.

Dr. Waters failed to answer several of the questions asked of him, including one which asked him if he knew of any Communists connected with Roosevelt. He said Columbia university was a center of Communism, giving this as his answer to the question, and stating that Harry F. Ward is a Communist.

After Dr. Waters had berated Santa Ana students who signed war resistor cards and had termed the signers as slackers, he admitted in answer to a question that pacifism is not Communistic. He made this statement after a student had carefully pointed out to him that Communism advocates violence and pacifism is the other extreme. "I'm sorry if I said that," Dr. Waters said.

Dr. Waters said in answer to another question that Socialists must be regarded as Communists because Communism has entered into Socialism so deeply, and declared with the same breath that a person could be a Socialist and yet be a 100 per cent American.

"Helped Situation" is a lot of Communism in the Santa Ana junior college, but that he had managed to help the red situation in the Anaheim high school through his talks and that Dean W. T. Boyce, of Fullerton junior college, who was on his list of reds, has promised to watch the situation more closely after "seeing that we know what we're talking about."

The speaker charged Jane Adams, noted authoress and social worker, and Julia Lathrop, famous educator, with being "un-American."

He then added the names of Harry Gerhart and Dr. Murray Bates of the Santa Ana schools to his list of "reds," apparently as an afterthought and a desire not to slight anyone.

Dr. Waters claimed that Communists make the movies as bad as they are to ruin the morals of young people to make them easy prey for Communism. "Those in Moscow are brilliant and are looking out for themselves," he said. The audience enjoyed a laugh after a junior college student had pointed out to Dr. Waters what the red neckties and red sashes worn by a group of Santa Ana junior college students at an assembly at which Homer Chailaux, state Legion commander, spoke, were emblems of the Buccaneers, a college group of bachelors and that they are worn at every assembly.

"If you say the students are red because they wore those red articles, then I think all the other facts you give are distorted, and I think they are," the student told Waters. "I want to put you straight."

The speaker charged that Conrad Jongeward, Anaheim "Y" secretary, had brought the matter of the red activities in the junior college Y.M.C.A. to his attention and that a play put on at the college glorified the slacker.

PWA ART EXHIBIT OPENS IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(UP)—The PWA art exhibit, a million dollar show, opened today after a preview at which President and Mrs. Roosevelt picked out some of the best examples for the White House executive offices.

The exhibition is made up of samples of the work done by artists all over the country. It represents an outlay by the federal government of $1,400,000 for which the government received 15,000 works of art.

Edward Bruce, head of the art project through which artists were hired at $24.50 to $38.75 a week to paint for the government, believes the government's investment was well worth while. He thinks the paintings, lithographs, and statues are going to be worth much more than that in years to come.

fish and cynical people see nothing in these adjustment programs but the benefit payments. But to my mind the benefit payment is not the most significant feature of the whole program.

"We have reason to believe that more and more farmers are looking beyond the government check to the heart of agriculture's adjustment problem, as well as to their own production schedules, and that they are beginning to see in the adjustment act at least the first crude effort to fashion that social machinery which every national administration since the war has agreed must be provided if the American farmer is ever to get a new deal."

"This machinery is, unquestionably, a change in the rules of the game, in so far as the farmer is concerned. It says that if any of our precious heritage from the countryside is to be preserved a new rule must be fashioned which puts a limit on individual selfishness. And finally, this new social machinery says that the exploitation of one group in the population by another must give way, not to class warfare but to that balance between our major producing groups which is dictated both by sound economics and social justice."

He spoke of charges made recently by Dr. William A. Wirt, school superintendent of Gary, Ind., that a movement was on foot to overthrow the present government and replace President Roosevelt with a dictator.

ANAHEIM STORE HEAD TESTIFIES

L. C. Herron, manager of the Pay'n Takit Store at Anaheim, was the principal witness today, as the defense presented its case against the $10,658 damage suit brought by a patron, Mrs. Eleonora Parker, of Anaheim, who was injured by a fall in the vegetable department of the Anaheim store last summer.

The trial opened yesterday before a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Arney court.

Herron today testified that when he examined the floor a few minutes after Mrs. Parker's accident, he found no evidence of crushed peas and other vegetable waste, which Mrs. Parker claimed caused her to slip and fall.

He summoned his family physician, Dr. E. H. Kersten, he said, but Mrs. Parker would not receive the physician's ministrations, and called for her own physician, Dr. Harold G. Carlin, who was then summoned to her.

The trial still was in progress late today.

ADD ANOTHER CAR TO FARM THEFT PATROL

Taking action to cope with the increased activity of fruit thieves in Orange county, climaxed recently by the killing of a thief in the orchard of H. H. Gardner, Villa Park avocado grower, the county supervisors today voted to add another patrol car and two officers to the sheriff's farm theft detail.

Claude Potter, of Orange, was appointed upon nomination of Chairman Willard Smith, as one of the two new members of the patrol. Supervisor George Jeffrey has made a tentative selection of the other member, but is not yet ready to announce his name, he said today.

The sheriff's force of thief catchers thus will be increased to three cars, and the territory of the county will be re-divided into two divisions as at present.

The decision and appointments were made after the board had consulted Sheriff Logan Jackson, who recommended the move, in view of the increased activities of thieves. Jackson pointed out the difficult problem of trying to cover, with two cars, the entire unincorporated area of the county, a territory with 43,000 population.

In view of these circumstances, and the fact that a large group of Yorba Linda residents had petitioned the board to add another car to the patrol, the sheriff said he would recommend the step.

'Huddles' Feature Meeting of Board

A petition asking that the new Westminster park be officially named Sigler county park, in honor of Charles Sigler, "who so generously devoted his time and efforts toward successful completion of the park, was filed with the county supervisors today with the signatures of 46 Westminster citizens.

The board was scheduled to act on the petition late today. A considerable portion of this morning's board session was devoted to private conference in committee rooms, at least two "huddles" being conducted during the forenoon.

Ray is alleged to have signed a $10 travelers' check with the name of Mrs. E. F. Ray, prominent socially in Laguna Beach, Los Angeles and Riverside, at an amusement parlor in Newport Beach on March 14. Seven of the checks are believed to have been cashed in Balboa and other cities.

Archer and Riley were arrested in Laguna Beach over the weekend by Chief of Police R. R. Hodgkinson of Newport Beach, who served a warrant secured by Clayton Hitchings, Balboa merchant.

Tragedy Fails To Halt Business

The tragedy in which he shot and killed Millard Lippe, of Orange, while he declared he was defending himself from attack, Sunday morning, did not interfere with the business affairs of Attorney N. D. Meyer, of Santa Ana.

Of the three cases filed in superior court Monday, two were filed by Meyer, as attorney for litigants. One was a suit brought on behalf of August Michel, as administrator of the Elizabeth Rosemeyer estate, to foreclose an $1800 mortgage against Santa Ana property of Harold T. and Beulah Bullock. The other was a petition of Manuel Monreal for letters of administration over the estate of the late Delphin Monreal, which consists of $725 in cash in a Santa Ana bank.

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

EXCUSE
The Japanese dare not say it openly, but they are coming around now, whispering in the ears of our officials, that their new game-keeping policy in China was not directed at us, but at France. The Japanese say they had inside information about a new loan France was making to China. This loan was ostensibly to strengthen Chinese banks, but the Japanese assert the money really was going into munitions.

SUSPICIOUS
Our people are suspicious about such whispered diplomatic explanations, especially when these come from the Japanese. The Japanese record for diplomatic veracity is considerably under 100 per cent.

Our official Far Eastern experts are more inclined to believe that the Japanese were shooting at the League of Nations. The league's Far Eastern commission is to meet early next month to decide what to do about Japan's conquest of Manchuria.

BACKTRACKING
All that does not explain, however, why Japan specifically attacked American trade relations with China.

HOUSES
The only big bad wolves who live in that little red house in Georgetown are Tom Corcoran (RFC attorney) and Ben Cohen (RFA attorney). The three or four others who live with them are not outstanding New Dealers. The "little" house is one of the largest mansions in that section. Jim Landie (FTC) lives ten miles away in Virginia. Professor Tugwell (AAA) resides in his own house several blocks away. They are all working so hard at their individual tasks that they rarely get together.

TOUGH GUYS
Leroy Peterson (consumers' counsel), AAA, is now known in gangland circles as "Dangerous Pete."

He was handling a code for an industry controlled, unknown to him, by racketeers. In a conference with him in New York they started to rough him up a little. Assuming them to be ordinary business men, Peterson roughed them right back. He laid down the law to them and won his point. Later, he noticed several guns sticking out of their back pockets, but, by that time, the gangsters enjoyed Peterson's style so much they offered him $25,000 a year to represent them on the code authority. He declined and became the government's representative at something like $6000.

ALLIANCE
The Russians say they have confidential diplomatic information of a secret alliance between Japan and Germany. Earlier in the spring, the Russians expected to be attacked by Japan, on one hand, and by Germany, Poland and Finland, on the other.

DEBATE
If you want to read the best brief opposing arguments in the current debate on the New Deal, get the speeches of Eugene Meyer and Professor Tugwell before the Society of Newspaper Editors here.

Professor Tugwell's speech was as carefully prepared as any New Deal statement of policy that has gone out of the Department of Agriculture. It is the first able answer to current New Deal criticism.

NOTES
Members of Roosevelt's Harvard graduating class say that the reunion held at the White House was the driest and most colorful in the class's thirty-year history.

Senator Borah was the man behind the curtains who induced the silverites to resist Mr. Roosevelt's idea on permissive rather than mandatory powers. Borah bit on that one once before and was disappointed when the President failed to use the silver powers Congress gave him.

The Roosevelt dollar policy is costing the Carnegie Peace Endowment $50,000 a year to pay the dollar disparity for its workers abroad.

NEW YORK

DILEMMA
United Aircraft is on the horns of a diplomatic dilemma. Its management has to perform the tough task of facing two ways at once. The company has been working hard to qualify for a mail bid under Farley's terms—even to the extent of splitting itself into independent transport and manufacturing units. It has been politeness itself to the government all through the cancellation unpleasantness. Such protests as it voiced were more pained than wrathful. So why do the four United transport lines which formerly held contracts suddenly decide to sue Postmaster General Farley for damages arising out of cancellation? It hardly seems consistent.

EASIER
So now the trick is to satisfy the stockholders by a show of belligerence towards the government and at the same time convince the government that really the action doesn't mean a thing and the company is still willing to play postoffice rules. Insiders say the suits are due for an early and quiet demise and that the government is going to be easier to appease than the embattled share owners.

T. & W. A.
Transcontinental and Western Air also has a devil-and-deep-sea problem. Its vigorous insistence that the contracts be restored focused on the hope that the Austin-Barbour bill or some similar measure could be forced through at this session of Congress if public opinion were sufficiently steamed up by the injustice argument.

Now this hope has been dashed by the President's proposal to delay permanent air mail legislation until next year. A last-ditch battle will be staged to try to squeeze the McCarron bill through but interested New Yorkers privately concede it hasn't a Chinaman's chance.

So where does the company go from here? If it sticks to its present tactics it's pretty sure to be frozen out on the new bids. Moreover the large General Motors interest presents a complication. The suspicion persists in inner circles that reprisals on General Motors itself are possible if T. & W. A. remains too stubborn. On the other hand it is committed so deeply that backing water would be very difficult. Many a directorial brow is furrowed trying to find the answer.

MANUFACTURERS
Meanwhile the aviation manufacturing companies are moving right along with the help of war clouds. Chinese and South American orders have recently taken a sudden jump with most American manufacturers getting a slice.

REGULATION
Somebody is being kidded about the "rigid margin requirements" to be incorporated in the Exchange regulation bill. The 41 per cent limit now in the House draft will probably be retained in the final bill but New Yorkers with first rate Washington contacts understand definitely that the governing commission will be given such broad powers to move it up or down that it won't mean anything. The informed say it's only being kept so that Washington can avoid the appearance of conceding the point to Wall Street.

Every time the regulation bill is revised it gets fatter. The original Senate Committee draft was printed in a 37-page pamphlet. The second took 53 pages and the latest edition runs up to 87 pages.

Wall Street cracks that Congress better quit revising it soon or they'll deforest the nation.

New York observers note that the Senate has followed several of Samuel Untermyer's suggestions in the current draft—notably administration of the law by an independent body to be named by the President and shortening of the liquidation period for accounts now outstanding which will be undermargined.

DEVALUATION
Organized farm pressure for more drastic dollar devaluation is about to shift into high. The five largest agricultural groups—Farm Bureau, Grange, Farmers' Union, National Cooperative Council and Cotton Growers' association—have united in a resolution urging that the gold price be immediately raised to the legal limit of $41.34. They have established close liaison with the Committee for the Nation to help the cause along.

"STRIKE"
About eight floor traders on the New York Exchange have decided to lay off trading until the regulation question is settled. Quite a few Wall Streeters got excited about the "strike." But there was nothing organized about it. The boys just decided individually that it wasn't worth the trouble to scratch for the pennies now in sight. There won't be any "floor traders' union" yet awhile.

SIDELIGHTS
Add encouraging signs: The gain in New York savings bank deposits in the first quarter . . . It means that fewer people have to draw on their savings to live . . . American Radiator's residential business rose 40 per cent in the first quarter.

Late News From Fullerton And Vicinity

INDUSTRY PLAN IS ATTACKED AT G. O. P. MEETING

FULLERTON, April 24.—An attack on the so-called regimentation of industry program of the national administration was made Monday night when 25 members of the Young Republicans' club of 74th district met for the first time in McFarland's cafe.

Principal speakers were John Reynolds, Brea, president of the club; Lotus Loudon of Anaheim; and Howard Irwin, chairman of the Republican Central committee of Orange county.

Reynolds said the regimentation of industry is a "vicious and dangerous thing. It is something that men should organize to fight and it serves to kill ambition of young men."

Loudon pronounced the candidacy of Upson Sinclair for governor of California the greatest menace of the day, "because of his introduction of socialistic ideas into the state." He said the Republican program is for profit of employers and employees. "The effort at regimentation provides for people to sponge off the administration," he declared.

Irwin told of the introduction into the last state assembly of bills to destroy party politics, bills introduced by Jepperson and Fliegenbaum, and, according to Irwin, originated through Hiram Johnson.

The next meeting of the Young Republicans will be at the Elks' clubhouse in Anaheim May 7.

Social Held By Methodist Class

FULLERTON, April 24.—More than 60 members of the Ladies' Bible class of the Fullerton Methodist church gathered at the church parlors for the monthly social and business meeting Monday night. Mrs. Lenore McKee presided.

Miss Minnie E. Ellis was chairman of the program. Jackie Baker read a number, Gerald Ellis and Elbert Hoffman played a piano duet. Jean Neal gave a group of readings. Betty Lou Edwards played a piano solo.

Mrs. William S. Raup led the devotional service, bringing a scripture reading and prayer. At the close of a social hour, Mrs. Elwood Starbuck, chairman, and her hostess committee, Mrs. L. J. Batchman, Mrs. Willis Maple and Mrs. George Gordon, served refreshments.

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located on the north side of the California hotel building. The phone number is Fullerton 550.

COUNCIL BUYS LOWEST PRICED POLICE AUTO

The city council authorized the buying of a new Ford police car last night, following several weeks of dickerings and discussion with police officials.

At the council meeting last week, Chief of Police Floyd Howard and the council came to a deadlock over his recommendation of a Plymouth car. A majority of the council refused to sanction the purchase of the Plymouth, which cost about $20 more than a Ford, unless Howard would give a reason for so doing. Howard refused to amplify his recommendation and the matter was dropped.

Councilman E. G. Warner brought up the question last night and urged that action be taken because the car was needed. William Penn followed with a motion that since all bids had been rejected last week, a new committee should be appointed to recommend a car. He suggested the names of A. F. LeGaye, Warner and City Purchasing Agent Lloyd Banks. LeGaye and A. C. Hasenjaeger said that there was no need for a new committee and that Howard had not been discharged, but City Attorney Clyde Downing ruled that a new committee was in order. Warner seconded the motion for a new committee and forced a vote, which resulted in Penn and Warner voting yes and LeGaye voting no. Hasenjaeger, acting mayor, in the absence of Paul Witmer, had no vote. Warner reported at once that the committee favored buying a Ford. LeGaye said he saw no reason for accepting Howard's recommendation to pay $20 more for a Plymouth, if there was no difference in the cars, which Howard admitted. Banks merely stated that he favored buying from the lowest responsible bidder.

Warner's motion to buy a Ford was unanimously approved by the board. The car will be purchased from the Dunton Garage company at a cost of $760.33, which includes special equipment, large tires, trade-in allowance on an old car and taxes.

The price of the Plymouth car, fully equipped, was $781.20. Upon Howard's recommendation and previous to the meeting last week, a Plymouth car was ordered equipped and ready for delivery to the city from the L. D. Coffing company, Coffing and O. R. Haan, Plymouth dealers here, had decided between them which was to sell the police car, Howard had reported.

OFFICIAL SEEKS FEDERAL FUNDS FOR CITY AID

Although well on his way to Washington, D. C., Mayor Paul Witmer was granted a leave of absence from the city for 30 days by the city council last night.

Witmer left on short notice Saturday afternoon after being advised by government officials that he might be able to secure federal funds for a city hall loan if he could go to Washington at once. It is understood that three large projects already approved had to be turned back and that about a million dollars is available for new projects in this area.

Witmer will arrive in the national capital tomorrow morning with preparations made in advance to see important officials. Other cities are reported to be sending delegations east also. By making the trip in the interest of the city, Witmer lost his chance to take over his new duties as federal land registrar in Los Angeles on May 1, and is now expected to start on May 15. Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger acted as mayor in the absence of Witmer last night.

PASS CITY LAW TO REGULATE CHARITY DRIVES

Enlarged by new provisions, an ordinance regulating donations, solicitations and charity drives was adopted by the city council last night.

Under the new statute it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or organization to make an appeal for charity or funds unless an application is filed and approved by the city council in advance. The council will not act on any application within 10 days. Complete data on the nature of the solicitation, amount of money desired, names and addresses of leaders, bank where money will be kept, how the money will be used, and other information, will be required.

No application will be granted where the overhead expense of conducting the drive is more than 10 per cent of the total amount to be raised. No drive will be allowed to continue more than 60 days without a new permit.

The council has complete power to reject or accept any application, and during the progress of a drive, can revoke a permit on three days notice if any indication of fraud or misrepresentation is found.

The ordinance was sponsored by Phil Brown, manager of the Business Men's association, who said that many unscrupulous persons conduct "rackets" by coming into cities, using the name of a local organization, and virtually robbing a large number of local citizens.

City Attorney Clyde Downing said that every form of public charity is included under the ordinance, such as lodges, churches, schools, societies and organizations. He also said that since the council had no intention of restricting worthwhile and legitimate charity drives, exceptions would undoubtedly be set up to facilitate the approving of applications. This would mean that applications from religious bodies, recognized local groups, schools and similar organizations would be accepted automatically and without question, it was said.

Another advantage of the ordinance is that the council can be apprised at all times of the amount of money being collected for public charities. The ordinance does not cover private charity work.

Council Refuses To Permit Oil Well Operations

Following a report from the city attorney recommending that no action be taken in rezoning property on West First street to permit oil drilling, the city council passed such a motion at the meeting last night.

It was said that the Golden Eagle Oil company, which was to take charge of the work, was not in a position at this time to make plans for development of the oil tract and satisfactory recommendations could not be given.

The original request for permission to drill for oil and also to lease a tract of city property near the Santa Ana river came from A. J. Terrell of the Anglo-California Trading corporation, who is affiliated with both companies.

TRUCK KILLS SIX SHEEP IN CANYON

Six sheep were killed and many were maimed when an unidentified truck driver drove his heavy vehicle into a band of 500 sheep this morning on the Carbon canyon road seven miles east of La Vida springs.

According to Mrs. G. Quintana, owner of the sheep, the truck was completely off the road on the left side when it hit the sheep. She told officers that the truck had no license and apparently no brakes, and sped away after the collision.

California Highway Patrolman Floyd Yoder answered the call on the wreck and shot the sheep which were most critically injured and dying.

NEW LAW BANS PASS CHECKS AT DANCE HALLS

After considerable discussion between city councilmen and proprietors of Santa Ana dance halls, first reading was given to an ordinance last night by the council which will not permit the giving of pass-out checks to patrons at the dances. No further action was taken or reports made concerning charges of immorality and laxness in law enforcement near dance halls which were made before the council last week.

The pass-out check question arose after complaints were made that patrons of the dances came outside to parked cars and became intoxicated or disturbed residents nearby with disorderly conduct. It was felt by the council that limiting the pass-out privilege might correct this condition.

Dance hall owners agreed at first to have a "gentlemen's agreement" to enforce this arrangement but later reported that a city ordinance would help them enforce it. City Attorney Clyde Downing prepared the ordinance, which is similar to ones in effect in Pasadena, Alhambra and other cities, he said.

The penalty for conviction of violating the ordinance is a $500 fine or six months in jail, or both.

The new ordinance, according to Downing, will affect all public halls, whether or not actual pass-out checks are used, and the owners will be expected to enforce the intent of the law to prevent patrons from going in and out at will.

A. H. Johnson, manager and W. E. Dixon, owner of the dance hall at Fourth and Van Ness streets, said that the banning of pass-out checks has stopped a great deal of disturbance and will make cleaner and safer dance halls.

Charles Clark of Charlie's Barn cafe, although not directly affected by the new rule, said he opposed it because many persons like to go outside for fresh air during a dance.

Ray Gilbert of The Palms dance hall at Third and Rose streets said he favored a law which would set up a minimum admission to every dance in the city, including public halls, lodges, entertainments and others. He said, however, that the new ordinance would help him enforce the rule in his hall, although he had never actually used the checks.

RESTRICT WHITE CANES IN S. A. TO BLIND PERSONS

Blind or partially blind persons will hereafter be the only persons entitled to carry white canes, following the passing of a city ordinance to that effect last night by the city council.

"White cane" ordinances have been adopted throughout the nation as a means of protecting blind persons while walking. Pedestrians and motorists are required to stop for persons having white canes and anyone failing to do so, or who has a white cane in his possession contrary to the provisions of the ordinance, will be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The penalty for conviction under the act is a $500 fine or six months in jail, or both.

The measure was brought up last week by Captain W. K. Hill, county surveyor. The ordinance was originally sponsored by the Lions club in a national movement.

The Santa Ana law will become effective 30 days after publication in The Register.

COUNCIL ACTS ON REQUESTS FOR CHANGES

Five applications were acted upon by the city planning commission and city council last night, including requests to erect a service station, move the wall of a grocery store, use a house for a physician's office, conduct a used car market and open a wrecking yard.

Joe Haupt, 821 Garfield street, asked permission to build a service station on the northeast corner of First and French streets. The commission recommended that it be posted for special use, provided that plans be submitted before a joint hearing with the council. The council accepted this recommendation and set the hearing for next Monday.

Permission to move a wall of Patterson's grocery, 1024 Highland street, was denied by the council after the commission said it would be a violation of the zoning ordinance.

Dr. Willis P. Baker, 201 East Seventh street, was granted permission to have his office in his home. There were no protests on his application.

When no protests were heard, E. S. Stover was granted permission to move his used car market from 507 East Fourth to 216 East First street.

On recommendation of the commission, the council denied the application of M. Lay, 414 West Fifteenth street, to open a wrecking yard at South Main street and Delhi road.

COUNCIL ORDERS WEEDS DESTROYED

When no protests were made to the city council last night concerning the cleaning of weeds from vacant lots in the city, a resolution was passed to have the work done under the direction of the city engineer.

By a previous agreement between the council and City Judge J. G. Mitchell, labor for cleaning the weeds will be furnished by those having delinquent fines in the police court. An hourly wage will be set up and the fines paid off by work for the city.

Councilmen point out that by using this method, men out of work and unable to pay fines will be given an opportunity to pay their debt to the city, and the city will receive funds which it would not otherwise collect. The work will probably be handled under contract.

NO TOLL CHARGES

Toll charges will no longer be required on the road from Hesperia east of U. S. Highway 66 to Lake Arrowhead and the Eichbaum toll road from Panamint Valley to Stovepipe Wells in Death Valley, advises the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

Pablo, a handsome youth, accused of murder he did not commit, escapes from Key West to Havana with two thieves, Beau and Lottie. Pablo Treadway, who could not find Pablo's father, heard scandal and remains silent.

In Havana, Pablo, under the name of "Maurice Field," becomes a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium. Pablo loves Estelle Field, daughter of Jim Field, and she loves him. They meet and plan to marry, but Field takes Estelle on a yacht cruise two years later, believing Pablo lost to her, she becomes engaged to Alvo Davis.

Sir Aubrey, a titled Englishman and Pablo's father, has been carrying on a search for him, employing Billings, New York detective. Billings has arrived at the gymnasium and Pablo, who has been spending months in aimless travel and then returns to Havana. He asks Lottie to marry him.

Maurice Field has lost his fortune. Davis breaks his engagement to Estelle and she and her father decide to return to Havana. Marcia Treadway, learning Pablo is in Cuba, impulsively joins them to clear Pablo of the murder charge.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLIII

Billings, the detective, sat at his desk reading for a second time a cablegram that had just been delivered. For weeks and months he had been trying to untangle the "Jeffries" snarl. And at every turn he had been halted.

The cable from Havana, sent by a swarthy Cuban co-worker, read, "Clasp Gold by Girl Called Lou Following Trail."

Billings studied these words, frowning. He had hoped Beau himself might turn in that clasp. Half an hour later a second cable arrived. Billings read, "Lou is Beau's wife."

Of course, Billings realized, Beau's story would be one of deliberate innocence. He would insist that in selling pearls occasionally, he was merely acting for a friend. Beau's past record would not help him, but neither would it convict him of the Jeffries robbery and murder.

Billings sighed deeply as he itemized the scant bits of information gathered with so much persevering effort.

The old man whom Pablo had knocked unconscious had testified that there had been another man besides Pablo on the scene. Nor he Noyes, whom Billings had brought to question the day after his arrival in New York, had said anxiously that he had heard a man and girl talking in the swamp, planning some manner of thievery. Then Noyes had risen, trembling, and talking rather incoherently of Cuba, where Billings had said he would find Pablo.

Pablo, a handsome youth, accused of murder he did not commit, escapes from Key West to Havana with two thieves, Beau and Lottie. Pablo Treadway, who could not find Pablo's father, heard scandal and remains silent.

In Havana, Pablo, under the name of "Maurice Field," becomes a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium. Pablo loves Estelle Field, daughter of Jim Field, and she loves him. They meet and plan to marry, but Field takes Estelle on a yacht cruise two years later, believing Pablo lost to her, she becomes engaged to Alvo Davis.

Sir Aubrey, a titled Englishman and Pablo's father, has been carrying on a search for him, employing Billings, New York detective. Billings has arrived at the gymnasium and Pablo, who has been spending months in aimless travel and then returns to Havana. He asks Lottie to marry him.

Maurice Field has lost his fortune. Davis breaks his engagement to Estelle and she and her father decide to return to Havana. Marcia Treadway, learning Pablo is in Cuba, impulsively joins them to clear Pablo of the murder charge.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLIII

Billings, the detective, sat at his desk reading for a second time a cablegram that had just been delivered. For weeks and months he had been trying to untangle the "Jeffries" snarl. And at every turn he had been halted.

The cable from Havana, sent by a swarthy Cuban co-worker, read, "Clasp Gold by Girl Called Lou Following Trail."

Billings studied these words, frowning. He had hoped Beau himself might turn in that clasp. Half an hour later a second cable arrived. Billings read, "Lou is Beau's wife."

Of course, Billings realized, Beau's story would be one of deliberate innocence. He would insist that in selling pearls occasionally, he was merely acting for a friend. Beau's past record would not help him, but neither would it convict him of the Jeffries robbery and murder.

Billings sighed deeply as he itemized the scant bits of information gathered with so much persevering effort.

The old man whom Pablo had knocked unconscious had testified that there had been another man besides Pablo on the scene. Nor he Noyes, whom Billings had brought to question the day after his arrival in New York, had said anxiously that he had heard a man and girl talking in the swamp, planning some manner of thievery. Then Noyes had risen, trembling, and talking rather incoherently of Cuba, where Billings had said he would find Pablo.

New Books IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERA RAMSEY
Many writers today are defending new and radical departure in our struggle with the depression. In "The Economics of Recovery," Leonard P. Ayres defends orthodox as opposed to managed recovery. He gives a conservative analysis of the depression and of the measures that have been enacted in this country to meet it.

Much of the book is devoted to a critical discussion of the new emergency legislation. He discusses the problems of inflation and foreign trade.

Careful attention is devoted to an analysis of the requisites for recovery. The treatment throughout aims at the separation of the essential elements of the problems from those that are merely incidental. It attempts to identify the controlling factors with careful explanations showing what makes them controlling. The book deals with economics as being problems of the people and their actions, and with public policies as being proposed courses conditioned by political realities.

The great merit of Mr. Ayres' book is that he applies a severely economic test to policies professionally economic in aim. His chapters are couched with calmness and lucidity. Readers of all schools will find his arguments weighty, whether or not there are considerations to be set against some of them.

The very general love of boys and men for aviation is sufficient impetus to keep well-informed on the subject. Only the best is good enough to give them an account of the subject. In this book, Hamilton gives just this in his book "Complete Model Aircraft Manual."

This book includes all possible kinds of model aircraft. There are 45 models including gliders, stick models, solid scale models, built-up non-flying scale models and flying scale models. The plans and diagrams are clear and accurate from the simple gliders that any boy can make to the elaborate flying models.

Besides the 55 working plans, there are 77 full-page photographs of the models. This includes such types as the flying army blimp, the Northrop Gamma "Sky Chief" and many others that have not before appeared in any book.

The word encyclopedia can safely be used to describe this important work. The introductory chapters are a complete encyclopedia of model airplane construction with full illustrations. An Airplane Alphabet shows by diagram the exact position and name of each part of a model airplane. Ten full-page illustrations show 126 insignia of all types. The most complete aviation dictionary ever published in book form is included.

William Butler Yeats is a poet of international fame, of personal charm and authority. He is devoted to culture, his theater, and his share in the management of the State. In spite of this one thinks of Yeats as a poet driven by the moon "to the edges of the sea"—as one whose poetry is "a flight into fairyland and a summons to that flight." We feel this in his new volume of poems "The Winding Stair."

The poem "Blood and the Moon" is the record not only of the inner life of this poet but of all who are followers of the muse. The accomplished artist is here, the adept in spiritual mysteries, the scholar with wisdom as well as learning. The gates have been opened long since, but the poet has become neither difficult nor obscure. In the second section of this poem he declares:

"This tower is my symbol; I declare This winding stairing spring tread-mill
of a stair is my ancestral stair:
That Goldsmith and the Dean, Berkeley
and Burke have travelled there."

Among the poems of "Words for Music Perhaps" under the guise of Polly, Crazy Jane and Tom the Fool, Yeats hides his greatest wisdom. He ever associates himself with water—"with the sea, the mirroring lake, or the jet that falls again where it had risen."

Yeats is more and more a poet as he grows older. He has not lost his technical curiosity; he has not lost that more elusive quality the sense of willing solitude. It is this that keeps him perpetually interesting and in the van of all poetic movements.

Interesting talks were given by Mrs. C. F. Rowell, who spoke on "Fakes and Fakery," Mrs. Benjamin Brubaker, "Freaks of Fashion," and Mrs. Robert Burns McAulay, "Is Romance Dead?"

The tables for the luncheon were particularly attractive, emphasizing a blue and gold color scheme in the appointments. During the business meeting, Mrs. Margaret Oeckles was appointed chairman of a nominating committee, to submit names of candidates for office at the next regular meeting. On behalf of the section, Miss Flo Searritt, leader, thanked Mrs. A. Haven Smith for acting as program chairman at the Women's club meeting April 16, when the section sponsored the program.

Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. O. G. Franke and Mrs. Lathrop.

Tax Payments Nearly 5 Per Cent Ahead Of Last Year

REMITTANCES BY MAIL NOT YET ENTERED

NEW SYMPTOMS OF SCALY BARK ARE EXPLAINED

Tax collections credited on the books of County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb at the end of last week, following the close of the collection period, amounted to $3,175,182.96, or 73.77 per cent of the total tax bill, which was a figure 4.53 per cent above the collections credited on the books at the corresponding period last year.

These figures represent only partial collections, it was pointed out, as a considerable proportion of the tax payments came by mail, which has not yet been opened.

The total tax charge this year was $4,303,699.94 as compared to $5,871,429.71 last year. The total collections last year, barring mail payments, was $4,065,653.42, which was 69.24 per cent of the total.

Due to the necessity of apportioning the tax money, which must be broken up into 458 combinations of districts, and further segregated into the various funds of each district, some of which have as many as ten different funds, the exact apportionment to any certain district or locality will not be known for about three weeks, according to the county official.

After Tragedy Struck Norwegian Fjord Village

A strange contrast of chaos and calm, this striking picture shows the ruins of the colorful Norwegian village Tafford after thousands of tons of rocks, crashing from the mountain sides into the deep waters of the fjord below, caused a tidal wave in which more than 40 men, women and children perished as they slept. The crippling of the power station, whose towers are seen rising behind the wrecked houses, plunged the village into darkness.

WALNUT PRODUCTION COSTS IN COUNTY FOR 1933 ARE $39 PER ACRE UNDER 5 YEAR AVERAGE

An analysis of costs involved in producing walnuts in Orange county has just been completed by the Farm Advisor's office, showing per acre costs of $71.37 in Orange county groves observed in 1933. The study covers a period of five years and embraces the cost records of 21 typical walnut orchards in the county.

The summary is being used by the walnut industry in tariff hearings before the Tariff Commission at Washington, but according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, was originally designed to help the individual grower appraise the efficiency of his orchard as a business enterprise and provide him with a standard basis for comparing his expenditures and returns with average and better orchards.

The bulletin just completed reveals that for the five year period 1929-33 the average production of walnuts was 1588 pounds per acre. The average net price to the grower in the same period was 10.37 cent per pound. Average production costs, including the owner's labor for the actual time he worked in the orchard, were labor $52.77 per acre; materials $22.63 per acre; and other cash costs $31.05 per acre, totaling $111.07 per acre.

The 1933 costs for the same items were $35.67 for labor; $16.50 for materials; and $70.50 for other cash costs, mainly taxes, totaling $122.67 per acre, or a reduction of $39.70 per acre from the five year average.

In the five year period quality grades averaged as follows: Dis-

SCHOOL WEEK PROGRAM WILL BRING DEBATE

A feature of more than ordinary interest planned for the Public Schools program at Francis Willard auditorium next Friday evening will be a debate between a team from the local junior college and one from the Toastmasters' clubs of this city.

The college debaters chosen after try-outs at the school are Robert Tannenbaum and Walter Kring. The Toastmasters' champions are, Smedley Chapter No. 1, Harold Fish, president of the club; El Camino club No. 2, Louis Eades. The subject to be debated is, "Resolved, that the powers of the President of the United States should be increased as a matter of permanent governmental policy."

The speakers from the Toastmasters' clubs will uphold the affirmative, and the college boys the negative side of the subject.

This debate, though it is expected to prove an interesting feature of the evening, is only one number of a carefully arranged program. Another feature planned is an exhibition of the work done in class-room by the science classes. Another will be a showing of boys' athletics. Classes in commercial pursuits will show the result of their instruction, while students of the glee clubs and orchestra will furnish the musical numbers for the evening. There will also be a spelling match between pupils from the junior high schools and six spelling champions from the Santa Ana Lions' club.

The entertainment is being sponsored by the Masonic lodges of Santa Ana, the purpose being to promote a better understanding on the part of the public of what is going on in the schools. To that end the public is urged to attend. Admission will be free.

City Schools Will Hold Open House

Except for co-operating in the Masonic program for annual public schools week, Santa Ana schools have planned no special observance of the occasion, beyond holding "open house" to parents and the public all this week. It was announced today by City Superintendent Frank A. Henderson.

"Each of the schools," said Henderson, "has some sort of exhibit on display, and we are urging parents to make public schools week an occasion for visiting the schools."

"During March there was a state-wide demonstration of school teaching, in which Santa Ana participated by giving 15 demonstrations, which were attended by 600 visitors. For that reason, we did not feel able to repeat the demonstrations with so brief an interval."

MRS. MINA WHITE DIES AT HER HOME

Mrs. Mina White, 64, resident of Santa Ana for the past 17 years, died at her home, 1102 Spurgeon street, today, following an extended illness.

She is survived by her husband, William White; two children, James W. White and Mrs. Ruth Paul, both of Eden, Idaho, and two brothers, Erwin Ayon of Santa Ana and Louis Ayon of Camanche, Iowa.

Announcement of funeral services will be made later by the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

EXPLORER OF ARCTIC LANDS TO SPEAK HERE

Stories of the arctic, coming first-hand from a renowned explorer of the frigid wastelands, will feature a special program in the First M. E. church auditorium next Thursday evening, when the Young People's department will present Captain Frank E. Kleinschmidt.

Captain Kleinschmidt, hardy adventurer into the polar regions, will detail an abundance of information upon Siberia, Alaska and unknown parts of the north, it is said, and has many a stirring tale to tell of his explorations.

With his talk, he will bring five reels of film showing his travels and experiences. A large crowd is expected to be drawn to the auditorium at Sixth and Spurgeon streets to see and hear him, the program being scheduled for 7:30 p. m. A silver offering will be taken.

KIWANIS CLUB TO MEET AT SCHOOL

Observing Public Schools Week, members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club will meet tomorrow noon at the Julia Lathrop Junior High school for luncheon instead of at James' cafe, it was announced today by Secretary Fred Crowell.

The meal will be served in the school cafeteria. Lyle Mitchell and H. G. Nelson, who will act as chairman of the day, are cooperating in combining the facilities of the two Santa Ana junior high schools for a school program.

Musical numbers, readings, exhibits of work by students and various scientific demonstrations will entertain members and guests of the club.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon
4 slices swissback
1 cup milk with cream poured off
1 cup strawberries
1 tsp. sugar
Clear tea, if desired.
Calory total, 215.
You may eat your luncheon, calling it bread and Milk de luxe. Or, you may heat the swissback and eat it more decorously, drinking the milk, and eating the berries out of a dish.
Bread and Milk de luxe, with dried ripe apple is a grand supper dish for the children on a hot night. Just give them the milk and take yourself out on the porch to cool off.

Perhaps, as I do, you find bulk pork sausage a bit solid, or tough, when cooked. The sausage meat needs a stretch—a starch—to make it pliable and tender after cooking. There are two ways you can do this:

For each pound of sausage meat cook 1-2 cup raw rice until it can be mashed to a paste. Combine with the sausage, mix very thoroughly, using the hands, pack in a pan overnight. Add preferred seasonings while mixing.

A quick way uses stale bread. For each pound use 4 average slices. Dip in cold water for a minute, drain and squeeze dry, crumble into the meat and mix with the hands until meat and bread paste are thoroughly incorporated. Form into cakes, dip in flour and cook slowly in a covered pan.

Today's Recipe

Macaroni Mousse
1 cup uncooked macaroni
1-2 cups scalding milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1-4 cup melted butter
1 cup pimiento, chopped
1 Tbsp., each, chopped onion and parsley
1-2 cups grated yellow cheese
3-4 tsp. salt
1-8 tsp. pepper
Dash of paprika
3 eggs.

—Contributed Recipe.
Cook the macaroni in boiling salted water until tender, drain, rinse in cold water to blanch, and again drain. Put the prepared macaroni into a buttered loaf pan, or a glass casserole. Let stand while the sauce part is prepared. The soft crumbs come from the center of a stale half-loaf. Pour the scalding milk over crumbs, add butter, chopped pimiento, parsley, onion, salt, pepper and paprika. Stir well, add grated cheese and well beaten eggs. Pour this sauce over the macaroni in the pan, poking it down through the macaroni with a fork. Cover the pan and bake 50 minutes in a very slow oven; the loaf will be tender yet firm enough to turn out of the pan onto a serving dish.

Serve with mushroom sauce, creamed egg sauce, or chipped beef in cream sauce. The loaf may be cooked in the morning and reheated for the evening meal by putting the pan in a larger pan with hot water surrounding the macaroni pan. Cover and heat in a slow oven 30 minutes. Uncover for 5 minutes to crisp top again. The calories total approximately 2800, and are mainly proteins, the tissue-builders.

Wednesday: A simple salad for ordinary family serving, or for use in a reducing diet.

Juniors Give Old-time Program for Ebell Society

Floradora girls danced and sang, would-be Sarah Bernhardt's and John Drews gave vent to their deepest emotions in a typical program of yesterday presented for Ebell society yesterday afternoon by members of Junior Ebell's Music, Art and Drama section.

The hour of entertainment planned by the section of Juniors and their leader, Miss Mary Bowyer, proved all too short, so intriguing were the youthful artists with their graces and aims so reminiscent of past eras of entertainment. Costumes for the occasion had been obtained by Mrs. Robert Heffner and Mrs. Lynn Crawford. Miss June Arnold, making her appearance in stately black attire, took full charge of the program, introducing each entertainer with appropriate witticisms. Miss Florence Brownbridge, as Madame Pompadour wore a frock of cerise silk with white polka dots, and short resumes of scenes to be presented from Richard Brinsley Sheridan's plays, "School for Scandal" and "The Rivals," under the capable direction of Miss Arnold.

Taking part in the scenes were Mrs. John Bradley, Miss Arnold, Mrs. Charles McDaniel and Arthur Casey. Mrs. McDaniel had the privilege of wearing a truly handsome gown of wine colored satin and velvet, with back panel tapering into a ruffled train. Other costumes were equally appropriate. Mrs. Harold Mowbray, wearing an old-time schoolmarm's gown, gave a demonstration of the proper way to teach elocution. Her class members, composed of Mesdames John Bradley, Frank Andrews Jr., George Walker and Miss Isabel Bondley, availed themselves of every opportunity to gesticulate and present. This group of students wore white cotton dress frocks with colorful sashes.

Arthur Casey, or "John Drew" as he was called for the afternoon, again made his appearance, giving a dramatic interpretation of "The Face on the Bar Room Floor." Those who had seen him in the Santa Ana Junior college presentation of "The Girl of the Golden Gulch" visualized him in mind's eye as the impressive villain that he was in that recently produced melodrama.

Quite the highlight of the afternoon were the "Floradora Girls" appearing as an act, directed in a miming and fascinating dance number by Miss Betty Bondley, with Mrs. Mervin Bryte as accompanist and song director. These merry entertainers, some dressed as men with long coats and stiff black hats, and others garbed as demure, but somewhat daring, maids received such an enthusiastic reception that they gave an encore number. Appearing in this group were Mrs. Don Park, Mrs. Frederick Elliott, Miss Isabelle Bondley, Mrs. Harold Dale, Mrs. Frank Andrews Jr., Mrs. Clifford Quisell, Miss Julia Thorndike, and Miss Betty Bondley.

MR. AND MRS. J. A. DUNN

Children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dunn, 902 South Shelton street, planned a happy surprise celebration of their parents' golden wedding day on Sunday, a day in advance of the actual date. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Dunn received family friends at a hospitable event in their home, where flowers, gifts and many flowers served to express the interest felt in the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

Happy Observance Made Of Golden Wedding In Dunn Home

Maintaining "open house" all yesterday afternoon and evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dunn, 902 South Shelton street, continued the joyous celebration of their golden wedding anniversary which began on Sunday with a family reunion planned by their children and grandchildren as a happy surprise.

It was on April 23, 1880 that Miss Etta Teater became the bride of J. A. Dunn at a wedding in Iowa, the home state of the young couple. For the next quarter century Mr. and Mrs. Dunn lived in Iowa and in Kansas coming to California 24 years ago to make their home. Memories of their wedding day were recalled to them on Sunday when their children began to assemble in the family home with everything in readiness for a gala celebration.

Quantities of golden yellow flowers were arranged throughout the home, and golden appointments were in use in all details of refreshments served. There were many individual gifts, but chief interest attached to the rings which the sons and daughters had selected for their parents. That one for their mother was set with a diamond in recognition of the fact that April is her birthmonth as well as her wedding anniversary month. Mr. Dunn's ring was set with a handsome moss agate.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kidd and family of Randsburg, represented the only one of the children unable to be present for Sunday's celebration. Present with Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Fore and children, Ralph, Lois and Leora; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Veale and daughters, Mildred and Nora; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brady and son Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Groover, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hull and children Ray Alden and little Miss Patsy Joan; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rogers and daughter, Mary Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fore and sons, Gerald and Roy Lee, and daughter Florence; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swishelm and son Paul Jr. and Mrs. Bruce Swishelm, Mrs. R. F. McMillan, Mrs. Laura Gedney, Miss Marjorie Gedney, Messrs. Alva and Clyde Gedney, Mr. and Mrs. George Schutz and children, and Bob Rogers.

The four generations were represented by this group, the most notable being the straight descent through daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. H. F. Fore, Mrs. Malcolm Rogers and little Miss Mary Jane Rogers. Mary Jane Rogers and Masters Gerald and Roy Lee Fore were the three great-grandchildren present.

Yesterday on the actual anniversary date, daughters and daughters-in-law assisted their parents in receiving the succession of interesting callers who thronged the home from 1 o'clock

Couple Sets June Date For Approaching Marriage

Setting June 29 as the date for their marriage, Miss Elva Ringland, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Ringland, and Paul Elsnor, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Elsnor were honor guests at an announcement party given Friday evening in the home of Paul Elsnor's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Wood, 2408 Spurgeon street. Pink roses and sweet peas provided effective decorations.

Miss Fern Hein and Walter Taylor were awarded prizes for their high scores in games played during the evening. Joe Ringland, brother of the bride-to-be, entertained with vocal solos.

Grouped about small tables at the refreshment hour when molded salad and an ice cream course were served, guests learned the romantic nature of the party which had been written the names of the young couple with the date, June 29, Mrs. E. H. Elsnor and Mrs. T. W. Ringland assisted Mrs. Wood in serving.

Present were Miss Grace Mauerhan, Miss Mildred Mauerhan and Miss Fern Hein, Messrs. Walter Taylor, Clarence Mauerhan and Joe Weaver, Anaheim; Miss Betty Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Elsnor, Miss Margaret Elsnor, Mrs. Otto Schaefer, Miss Leota Schroeder, Mrs. T. W. Ringland, Mrs. E. H. Elsnor, Joe Ringland, Miss Elva Ringland, Paul Elsnor and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Wood.

Earlier in the week Miss Elva Ringland entertained with a waffle supper in the home of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Ringland, 1105 West Third street. The hostess took this opportunity to announce her marriage plans to the United Brethren O. G. club of which she is a member.

Present in addition to class members were Miss Margaret Elsnor, Mrs. E. H. Elsnor of this city and Mrs. Noble of Orange.

ORANGE BLOSSOM FETE

The Lindsay-Strathmore Orange Blossom festival will be held on April 21, according to reports received by the National Automobile club, inaugurated just two years ago, this fete is one of the most beautiful and distinctive offerings in the state.

In the afternoon until nearly 10 o'clock last night. So many expressed their congratulations in floral form, that the home was garlanded with blossoms. Mrs. Dunn added a corsage of roses and sweet peas to her pretty silk frock, and proudly wore her gift ring, as did Mr. Dunn.

One of the guests, Mrs. Maude McMillan, had been present at the wedding 50 years ago, and many were the happy details recalled. Ice cream and cake were served throughout the afternoon and evening.

Bridge Tea Enjoyed My Many Women at Country Club

With bridge as the lodestar guiding them to Santa Ana Country club, some half hundred women of the community assembled there Friday afternoon to enjoy their favorite game as guests of Mrs. Herbert L. Miller and Mrs. George Raymer.

Mrs. J. B. Tucker was successful in making the afternoon's high score, with Mrs. R. O. Winckler scoring second high, so to them were presented the attractive gifts chosen as prizes. Guest prize went to Mrs. James K. Herman.

There was the customary social interval to follow play, and Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Raymer presided at the tea table, a post to be filled at the May afternoon party by Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Winckler because of their high scoring at Friday's function.

Party Hostess Employs Mexican Motif in Appointments

All the color and charm of Mexico seemed typified in appointments of a delightful desert bridge party with which Miss Ruth Dohmer entertained Saturday afternoon in her Tustin home, complimenting the officers and council members of Santa Ana Bethel Job's Daughters, of which she is honored queen.

Bright pottery bowls were used as containers for flowers in bewildering variety of form and color; small cactus gardens were placed about the rooms, and on each table spread for serving the inviting desert course immediately upon arrival of the guests, was a vivid little pottery bowl spilling over with orange and brown nasturtiums. Pretty Mexican figures ornamented the place cards which later did service in recording bridge scores.

Miss Dohmer had the assistance of her mother, Mrs. John Dohmer, her sister, Mrs. Ed. Thiery, and Mrs. Russell Gundrum (Hazel Hagerman) in entertaining her guests.

DOUBLE BILL!
"Above the Clouds"

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The Tinymites ran up to the gate of Mother Goose Land. "I can't wait until we get inside," said one. "I sure am curious!"

"Of this fine place we've often read, but now we'll visit here, instead. I think that Mother Goose is being very kind to us."

"That's quite all right," said their new friend. "I'm always very glad to lend a hand to little people who desire to see new sights."

"You see, I know just who you are, and that you've traveled wide and far. Why, everybody knows about the happy Tinymites."

"Now, when we're right up at the gate, I'll knock, and then we'll have to wait until somebody lets us in. I don't know whom 'twill be."

"'Twill make no difference, though, because each one in Mother Goose Land does just as I tell them to. I am the ruler here, you see."

The knock brought forth a little lad. He swung the gates and said, "I'm glad to see some nice, new playmates. Won't you youngsters come inside?"

Said Mother Goose, "Of course they will. I've brought them here to get a thrill. I found them way up in the air, and took them for a ride."

Wee Goldy told the lad her name, and added, "Gee, I'm glad we came. If all the tots in this land are like you, we'll have real fun."

"They're better still," the lad said. Then he cried, "I'll see you all again." As Dotty watched him scamper off, she shouted, "See him run!"

Soon Coppy spied a great big shoe. Said Mother Goose, "That's new to you, and it's the house where an old lady houses tots galore."

"The shoe home is a funny sight. I wish you could sleep there to-night, but it's so full of children, now, that there's no room for more."

(The Tinymites meet the children who live in the shoe in the next story.)

SANTA ANA DEFAMED

Santa Ana citizens have been outraged by a lurid slaying. Spread abroad are the details of a crime which is of the type people in Santa Ana have been accustomed to reading about as happening in other places.

The details of the story make it quite clear that it would not have happened if the victim had been held by the police until he had sobered up. He was drunk and probably because of the drink, fighting mad Saturday night. He had been in the custody of the police who knew that he had been drinking when they had him. Yet the police released him in such condition that he was not responsible.

When the police of Santa Ana think with as tender hearts of the people who are menaced by those who have been drinking as they do of those who are intoxicated to some degree, they will begin to realize that an individual who has been drinking enough to get into a brawl and call the attention of the police to his conduct is a menace and not a harmless joke to be treated with the utmost tolerance. Drunken people who are abroad and therefore a menace to society should be locked up until they are sober. And if the present legal definition of drunkenness, as it is interpreted by the doctors, does not sustain the police department in that line of action they should be outstanding and loud in their demand for adequate laws to insure that the drunken man or woman, for his own safety and for the good of society, is kept in a safe place until he is sober.

If the laws now in existence were enforced there would be sympathy for authorities who blame loopholes in the law for not doing their part in the enforcement of what laws exist.

Santa Ana has a reputation for being one of the finest, law-abiding, and self-respecting little cities in the United States. The way a community loses such a reputation is by letting one such occurrence as happened Saturday night be a matter of isolated instance rather than an indication of dangerous laxity. At any rate, it is a basis for a demand that liquor laws be enforced. And if the existing laws are not adequate to keep the streets free from drunken drivers and pedestrians and keep the young people of the community protected from those who make money from the sale of liquor to the citizens of the community must agitate for the necessary laws, be they city ordinances, state laws, or national laws to protect the reputation of the city. The citizens all, particularly the real estate men who are keenly alive to those things which affect the property values of the city, the ministers, the mothers and fathers, should all get behind such agitation.

Whether Sunday morning's killing was justifiable or not, it is a tragic consequence of official leniency.

CHINA ANSWERS JAPANESE STATEMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY

Japan's arrogant statement of responsibility for maintaining peace in East Asia and that country's arrogant policy regarding her determination to pass upon treaties to which she is not a party came as a shock to the world, particularly here in the United States, where the recent exchange of friendly notes between the foreign secretaries of the two countries had given rise to hope for a new era of understanding. But the informal statement issued by the Nanking Foreign Office following Japan's actions is balm to sore wounds. China's response follows:

"China has always held the opinion that international peace can be maintained only by the joint efforts of all the members of the family of nations. Especially is it necessary for the nations to cultivate a genuine spirit of mutual understanding and remove fundamental causes of friction in order to establish a durable peace.

"No state has a right to claim exclusive responsibility for maintaining peace in any designated part of the world. Being a member of the League of Nations, China feels it her duty to promote international cooperation to achieve peace and security.

"In endeavoring to attain these ends, she has never harbored any intention of injuring the interests of any particular country, far less of causing any disturbances of Far Eastern peace. China's relations with other nations in this regard have always been of such a nature as would characterize the relations between independent sovereign states.

"In particular, China desires to point out that collaboration between herself and other countries, whether in the form of loans or in the form of technical assistance, has been strictly limited to forms non-political in character, and the purchase of military equipment and airplanes and the employment of military instructors have been with no other purpose than to secure her national defense, which chiefly concerns the maintenance of peace and order in the country.

"No nation not harboring ulterior motives against China need entertain any fears concerning her policy of national reconstruction.

"Regarding the situation now existing between China and Japan, it should be emphasized that genuine and lasting peace should be built upon foundations of goodwill and mutual understanding and that it would go a long way toward laying such foundations if the existing unfortunate state of affairs could be rectified and if relations between China and Japan could be made to rest on a new basis, more consonant with the mutual aspirations of the two countries."

PEOPLE FOCUS ATTENTION ON DILLINGER HUNT

The thoughts of almost everyone in the United States are following the hunt for John Dillinger, notorious outlaw. At this time the forces of law and order are trailing him in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

As we said at the time he was permitted to escape from the jail at Crown Point, Indiana, his gaining of freedom meant that many others would pay with their lives ere he was captured. In an attempt to capture him and his fellow outlaws in a resort in northern Wisconsin Sunday night, and in an ensuing battle two men were killed and another probably fatally wounded. It is possible that one of the "mobsters" was wounded, perhaps killed, for blood was found on the seat of their abandoned coupe. If it were true that Dillinger's jailers were bribed to allow him to escape, of which they were accused, one can imagine with what a feeling of disgust they weigh the amount of money received against the toll of lives in which their action has resulted.

Sooner or later, Dillinger will be captured. President Roosevelt yesterday asked for the immediate consideration of anti-crime bills in Congress in an effort to help in the hunt. These bills are designed to give the federal government wider powers in dealing with desperate criminals who carry on their despicable actions across state lines. The people of the country owe a great debt to those representatives of the law who have suffered death and injury in this most important peace-time work. These men and others who risk their lives are real heroes. The prayers of the people of the nation go with those who are following the trail. For a man like Dillinger there is but one logical outcome of his activity.

WALTER DISNEY ATTRACTS HONOR TO THE FILMS

For the first time moving picture films have been recognized by the Art Workers' Guild of England. The organization numbers among its members a great many Royal Academicians, artists, architects, sculptors and craftsmen. It is Walter Disney's gift which has brought recognition to the films for he has been elected an honorary member of the Art Workers' Guild. In this paying public tribute to Mr. Disney, Cecil Thomas, secretary of the guild wrote: So impressed are our members by the importance and influence of your great gift to the art of the film and the happiness of the people of the world that they unanimously carried a proposal that you be elected an honorary member of the Art Workers' Guild.

Whether it has been prejudice or dispassionate judgment which has restrained the Art Workers' Guild from recognition of the films before this it is certainly true that no more unique, pleasing, and artistic work has been done since the beginning of the motion picture.

Protecting the Indians

New York Herald-Tribune

The general support given the Wheeler-Howard Indian rights bill by widely differing organizations interested in Indian welfare is convincing evidence that the measure is, in the main, a good one. Building on the foundations of reform initiated by Messrs. Rhodes and Scattergood under the Hoover administration, Mr. John Collier, the present chief of the Indian bureau, seeks to raise a structure which will at the same time insure the Indians the advantages of Federal guardianship and prepare them for a large measure of self-government. The tendency is away from the old policy of making white men out of Indians. It seeks definitely to preserve what is left of the best features of Indian culture. Where tribal organizations exist these are to be used in tribal government. Where they do not exist in a practical form they may be created. Education is to be carried on with a view to preparing the Indians to live under their own customs and to be able ultimately to administer their own affairs. Finally, the Indians are to be protected from further encroachments upon their lands—a policy which should have been inaugurated years ago so as to prevent them from being effectively robbed by shyster lawyers and aggressive politicians.

Such a measure is so full of detailed provisions that it requires careful examination before acceptance. But it is encouraging to note that Mr. Collier has departed from custom to the extent of personally touring the country to discuss the provisions of the bill with the chiefs of the different Indian tribes. The proposed changes in policy have been explained to them and suggestions have been requested as to possible modifications. It is hoped that the policy as developed will embody the desires of the more thoughtful among the Indian leaders.

Certainly the time is at hand to put an end to the abuse of the Indians, it is almost too late to prevent their old cultures from being annihilated. Only a few tribes like the Navajos and Pueblo Indians in the Southwest have been able to maintain their own in the face of the persistent efforts to "Americanize" them. In the former Indian Territory they have not only been disrupted but also plundered. Until very recently the Federal government has looked upon its agreements with the Indians as binding only when they have not run counter to local political interests. During the last decade important strides have been made in the right direction. But the Indian is not yet "safe." In so far as the Wheeler-Howard measure tends to protect him—and we have the assurances of various organizations interested in the Indians that this is the case—it deserves support.

How the Diplomats Practice Diplomacy

San Bernardino Sun

This story is told, in the New Yorker, of one of the American delegations at the London economic conference last summer.

He was scheduled to meet in a hotel parlor a deputation of Japanese. When he entered in a sack suit he was chastened to find the Japanese all arrayed in cutaways and striped trousers. Thinking quickly, the American explained that he had been out and had just returned to the hotel, and would be ready for the conference in a few minutes. He dashed up to his room, changed his suit and answered a telephone call, then rushed downstairs again in his cutaway and stripes.

There were the Japs, untruffled as usual, all dressed in sack suits.

This, friends, is the best picture of diplomacy, as practised by diplomats, that we have ever seen. Futile amenities are everything. Net results are usually zero.

Did You Wash Well Behind The Ears?

More Truth Than Poetry

NO HOPE

After gazing at a picture of the Man of the Future.

I learn that the Man of the Future
Will consist very largely of brain.
By machines he'll be freed
From the present-day need
The family living to gain.
He will look rather like Mr. Gandhi.
His being with Mind will be fraught;
He never will think
About victuals or drink
But subsist very largely on thought.

This person will hardly resemble
The people you meet on the street;
His form will be limp
As a deflated blimp
And his face will not be any treat.
His wife will be clad in pajamas
And run very largely to brow,
And he'll be severe
And eccentric and queer
Like certain professors are now.

In my youth I was prone to imagine
On this globe I should like to abide.
Observing it range
Through change after change
While it took the old race for a ride.
But if, in the dim distant future,
This species of people abound,
Though I'm sure I don't know
Where I'm likely to go,
I rejoice that I shan't be around.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS

The most interesting happening of this decade is the way in which liberalism and conservatism are swapping platforms.

Until a little while ago a liberal was a man who believed in great personal freedom of thought and action and definite limitation upon the sway of governments over the lives of men.

Until a little while ago a conservative was a man who was likely to believe in not a little regimentation of the lives of men, in censorship of ideas and actions, in censorship of the accepted traditions, in authority, in centralization of power.

The Democratic Party, being on the bench so long and having no direct responsibility, was naturally the liberal party.

The Republican Party, being at the bat so long and having heavy responsibility for the direction of the national life, was naturally the conservative party.

Today the Democrats are moving in the direction of a greater and greater regimentation of the life and enterprise of the nation, greater and greater concentration of power in Washington, greater and greater authority for government, and indirectly in the direction of branding as heretical the men who doubt and damn their doctrines.

And the picture becomes most fascinating as we see erstwhile conservative Republicans becoming the ardent advocates of decentralization of power, states' rights, freedom of speech and press and assembly, limitations upon authority, and all the round of things the liberals were whooping it up for a decade ago.

Both are right and both are wrong!

There must be greater central planning and greater central control. But neither the extreme dictatorships nor the extreme democracies of the time can permanently survive. The nation waits for a leadership that will throw both the old liberalism and the old conservatism on the scrapheap and hammer out, in terms of American tradition and American change, a program of action that preserves the best and eliminates the worst in both.

The tragedy is that the 1936 campaign will probably be the old battle between obsolete and ineffective philosophies of politics and economics, the only difference being that the Democrats and Republicans will have traded clothes. Copyright, 1934, McClure News-P'n Syn.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THOSE LETTERS

"I had a letter from Harriet this morning."

"Yes? What did she say?"

"O, the usual thing. No news. They're all well. But she complains that Joe hasn't written to her. Hints that if he expects her to remember him the least he can do is to remember her once in a while."

"Hm. That remembering business doesn't set well with me. I don't want the children to hear anything of that sort. I've seen plenty of the mischief it makes in families. If Joe wants to write to his aunt all well and good, but there's to be no talk about remembrances."

"I know, I know, but I always have the children write regularly. As regularly as I can. I know that Joe wrote to Harriet right after Christmas. I didn't have him write before because she might think, you know—"

"Exactly—"

"But right after, during the holidays, he wrote. But she says she hasn't heard from him—O, Joe—"

"Coming. Yes, mother—"

"Didn't you write to Aunt Harriet after Christmas?"

"Yes. You made me."

"I got a letter from her and she says she didn't hear from you. I suppose she means not since then."

"How does she expect me to write to her when she never answers my letters? You can't write to anybody who doesn't write to you, can you?"

"Your Aunt is older—"

"If she wants me to write to her, mother, don't you think she will write to me? She never sends a word no matter how many letters I write. I'm not going to write to her any more until she writes to me and asks me to. Would you, Dad?"

"No, I would not. It takes two to keep a correspondence going. You've done your part. Let it go at that."

As people grow older they grow more and more dependent upon their correspondence. A letter from one of the younger generation is a real pleasure. Besides bringing new interests into the lives of the elders it keeps the line of communication between members of the family who live at a distance. Parents are busy and letter writing is a chore. If the youngsters take it over they are delighted. The children will write if they are encouraged to do so.

Children like to get letters through the mails. When they know that the price is a letter in return they will keep on writing. If they get no return they stop. Why not? Wouldn't you? Special days ought to bring out the letter writing spirit in full force. Birthdays, anniversaries of special importance, Christmas and Valentine's Day and Graduation and confirmation and coming of age—all the high spots in the calendar ought to be celebrated with a letter. If the grown folks, the old folks, the distant relatives, will attend to their mail they will find the children responsive. Nobody wants to write into a vacuum.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
